Sex Education Geared to Sell Abortions

---

I support quality sex education.

Planned Parenthood

Education: A good marketer knows that he can sell his product by showing that it is the best solution to a need. In the case of abortion, it also helps to create more need – by encouraging sex among teens too young to be expected to parent. A few weeks ago we wrote about Planned Parenthood’s sex education programs that encouraged sixth graders to feel “comfortable and ready” for sex. (1) Preparing children for that point begins much earlier, however.

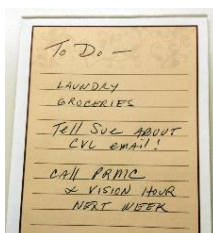

Carol Everett, a former abortion clinic owner who later became pro-life, stated after her conversion that “We had a goal of 3-5 abortions from every girl between the ages of 13 and 18.”(2) In order to achieve that goal, they started in kindergarten. They asked the kids what their parents called their private parts. They told them the correct names and established themselves as authorities on sexual matters. Their purpose was to erode natural modesty and “separate the children from their values and their parents.” In third grade they were shown “how-to” diagrams of sexual acts, and in fourth grade were encouraged to masturbate. (2)

Later on, said Everett, “My goal was to get them sexually active on a low dose birth control pill that we knew they would get pregnant on.” Low dose pills need to be taken at the same time every day, and of course teens would not be expected to do that. But girls on the pill usually had sex more frequently, since they considered themselves “safe”. (2) The abortion industry is all about selling abortions, including steps to encourage sexual activity in young teens to create a greater “demand” for their product.

Prayer: Dear Father God, please have mercy on our children. Help state legislatures and school administrators understand the harmful nature of “Comprehensive Sex Education.” Help parents and all citizens to be vigilant in protecting children from the agenda of Planned Parenthood and other groups who seek to break down natural modesty and undermine the authority of parents and their values. Protect the children who have already been exposed to these teachings from the destruction of their natural defenses, and help them to learn the true meaning of sexual intercourse as part of the total loving and giving relationship of marriage.

Action: Check on the sex education curriculum offered by your local school district, or mandated by your state. Talk to members of the local school board, and when election time comes, ask the school board candidates where they stand on sex education. Share what you have learned about the dangers of comprehensive sex education with the parents you know. Many states allow parents to opt out of exposing their children to sex education curriculums.
